

CAMBODIA

There is good progress in providing health access to people with low income through funding schemes such as the Health Equity Fund, and the country is on track to meeting the health-related Millennium Development Goals. The burden of disease appears to be shifting from communicable to noncommunicable diseases: diarrhoeal disease in particular, has decreased by 80% from 1990 to 2010. Despite these positive signs, the availability of skilled health professionals is below indicative thresholds and would need to almost double to meet the lowest of these by 2035. Inequities in accessibility are a challenge, with access to skilled birth attendants ranging between 50% and 100% from poorest to richest areas. There is evidence of good policies, including a costed plan for human resources for health (2008–2015), although some key areas such as preservice and in-service education may require even greater focus.

Top 10 causes of morbidity and mortality (DALYs)

Disability-adjusted life years (DALYs) quantify both premature mortality (YLLS) and disability (YLDs) within a population. The top 10 causes of DALYs are ranked from top to bottom in order of the number of DALYs they contribute in 2010. Bars going right show the percent by which DALYs have increased since 1990. Bars going left show the percent by which DALYs have decreased.
